

ad sales director

Up Here Publishing is looking for an experienced, energetic advertising sales director to lead the sales activities for its award winning magazines.

The ad sales director oversees a sales/admin staff of five, works closely with the publisher to meet sales and communications targets and is responsible for setting and meeting sales targets.

The ideal candidate will have a proven track record in print advertising sales, will understand the publishing industry, will be goal oriented, and will be familiar with the northern business community.

This unique opportunity to be involved with one of Canada's leading magazine publishing companies offers a generous salary/commission and benefits package.

To apply, please forward a cover letter, a comprehensive resume and an outline of how you would approach this position to marion@uphere.ca.